DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's pre-engage-ment rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M. Sanderson, For Publishing by Subscription, A Biography of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates. To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are allied to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exertion of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprises of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.— Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the slumbers of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valor.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS. I. The work will be published in numbers of half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved facsimiles of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States. II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery. * Subscriptions received at this office october 18

THE MOON OF NIGHT.

A holy rapture thrills the soul,
And speechless inspiration seizes,
As 'neath the evening's mild control,
Roam forth autumnal breezes;
And o'er the landscape waft perfume,
And curl the surface of the river,
And wake, amid the forest gloom,
Lone sounds, that rise and fall for ever.

The fields around of fading green;
The sun descending o'er the ocean;
The azure mantling o'er the scene;
The star, that pays devotion
Unto the lovely moon of night,
In silent adoration weeping,
And shedding gems of dewy light,
Upon the sword of daisies peeping.

These, all in mellowness combined,
Awake the soul to meditation;
Unveiling to the raptured mind
The wonders of creation.
We hear not—but they speak too plain,
And silent tell us in derision,
That all terrestrial bliss is vain,
And life an unsubstantial vision.

BY A YOUNG LADY BORN BLIND.

If this delicious, grateful flower,
Which blows but for a little hour,
Should to the sight as lovely be,
As from its fragrance seems to me;
A sigh must then its color show,
For that's the softest joy I know,
And sure the Rose is like a sigh,
Born just to soothe, and then—to die.

My father, when our fortune smil'd,
With jewels deck'd his eyesless child;
Their glittering worth the world might see,
But, ah! they had no charms for me.
Still as the present fail'd to charm,
A trickling tear bedew'd my arm;
And sure the gem to me most dear,
Was a kind father's pitying tear.

ANTIQUITIES.

Sir—Having lately read a paragraph in the London and Provincial papers, stating, as an instance of longevity of the Oak, that the tree is still standing from which the arrow glanced and struck King William II., I beg, thro' your Journal, to correct the error, by inserting the inscription on a triangular stone, near Stoney Cross, in the New Forest:

FIRST SIDE.

Here stood the Oak tree which an arrow shot by Sir Walter Tyrrell, at a stag, glanced and struck King William the Second, surnamed Rufus, in the breast, of which he instantly died, on the second day of August, anno 1110.

This spot was visited by King George III. and Queen Charlotte, on the 27th of June, anno 1789.

SECOND SIDE.

King William the Second, surnamed Rufus, being slain, as before related, was laid in a cart belonging to one Purkess, and drawn from hence to Winchester, and buried in the Cathedral Church of that city.

THIRD SIDE.

Anno 1745.

That where an event so remarkable had happened, should not hereafter be unknown, this stone was set up by John Lord Delawarr, who has seen the Oak tree growing in this place.

It may not be wholly uninteresting to state that the axle-tree of the cart, which conveyed the body of the King to Winchester, as mentioned above, was preserved in the Purkess family, who reside near Minstead, until about thirty-five years since, when in a drunken frolic they burnt 'Old Rufus' as they called it.

On the Driver sloop of war being lately taken into harbor a great crowd of people assembled to view her, and among the rest a sly weaver from the country. One of the officers being ashore, and rather surprised to see such an assemblage, asked this wag, who chanced to be near him, what could excite so much wonder among the people? "O, sir," replied he, "It is the owners, come to see the vessel!" "Owners, sir!" "Yes, sir, they hold shares—some more, some less!"

Two Quakers in Vermont had a dispute; they wished to fight, but it was against their principles; they grasped one another: one threw and sat on the back of the other, and squeezing his head in the mud, said, "On thy belly shalt thou crawl, and dust thou shalt eat all the days of thy life." The other soon gained the victory, and when he had attained the same position, said—"It is written, 'the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head.'"

ALEXANDRIA: THURSDAY MORNING, December 9.

SINGULAR ENTERPRISE.

During the revolutionary war, two British vessels were sunk near New-York, one of which and on board, it is believed, a million of dollars. It is now proposed to descend to the vessels by means of a diving bell, peculiarly constructed for the purpose, and which, from experiment, can easily be effected. The projector of the enterprise, Mr. Samuel Davis, of Baltimore, submits the plan to his fellow citizens, through the newspapers, and proposes to create a stock to procure the machinery by subscription. He has rated the shares at 15 dollars each, so that almost any person who may have sufficient confidence in the chance of success, may become a stockholder. Application is to be made to Mr. D. at the Coffee-house, Baltimore.

The American Bible Society acknowledges the receipt of 3052 dollars and 76 cents, during the last month.

POTATOES.

There were shipped from Hallowell, Me. during the present fall, 23,297 bushels of potatoes, a good part of which have no doubt found their way to Alexandria.

Our navigation is however yet open and our vessels are fast loading at the wharves, expecting it to be their last trip for the season. We have had a remarkable fine and long extended fall, and the farmer and merchant, both in city and country, have exerted themselves to make the most of it.

If any one will take the trouble of looking into the treaties made by the United States with France, with the United Netherlands, with Sweden, with Great Britain, with Prussia, and with Spain, he will find that the acceptance of commissions from a foreign power by the citizens or subjects of either of the contracting parties, to cruise against the citizens or subjects of the other, is by treaty in each of these cases made Piracy.

A circular has been issued from the treasury department, by order of the President of the United States, that any clerk who shall have been guilty of receiving pay for making out entries of merchandise for any merchant or merchants, shall be dismissed the office of collector. This order, in the opinion of the most respectable and intelligent part of the commercial community, is a wise and prudent measure. They view the consequences as salutary; and whilst it destroys the opinion that the collector countenances such improper proceedings, on the part of the clerks, it adds a greater degree of respect to the establishment.

From the American Farmer.

Mr. Skinner.—Whilst I was in Ohio I had the happiness to see the Steubenville cloth manufactory, and to be known to Mr. Dickinson of that place, who is part owner of the manufactory, and who owns a flock of seven hundred of the most beautiful merino sheep in the world. The manufactory is great, and, I think, splendid. I saw fine cloth weaving, and afterwards saw it dressing, made from the wool of the sheep which I had seen—I engaged a few yards of it, brought it home, have coats making for myself, and for my son and daughter, who will call on you shortly on their way to Cecil.—My belief is, that if ever I saw as good imported, I certainly never saw any superior. The Steubenville manufactory is in full operation, making cloths of various prices. I bought some for a great coat for four dollars and some cents the yard, which I think is more beautiful than imported cloth, which is sold in our shops at 6 and 7 dollars the yard.

Coroner's Office, December 8, 1819.

An inquest was held yesterday, at No. 964 Water street, on the body of an unknown man, apparently about 35 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches high, brown hair, had on a brown great coat, striped vest, drab colored pantaloons, woolen stockings and good shoes—who came to his death in the act as a laborer, of putting ballast on board of a brig, and accidentally fell off the wharf, and was drowned.

Mr. Bridge, a gentleman very fond of field sports, resident near Dorchester, met with a serious loss a few weeks since. On his leaving home for church, he was followed by a lad who had the care of his dogs, who said the meat was exhausted, and that the dogs would be starved. He requested, therefore, to know what was to be done. "Hang the dogs!" exclaimed Mr. Bridge, in an angry tone, vexed at the abrupt and unseasonable manner in which he was addressed. The lad made no reply, and returned to the house full of sorrow and surprise. The angry exclamation of his master was mistaken for a peremptory order: the poor lad, with an aching heart, lost not a moment to carry it into execution; and Mr. Bridge, on his return home from church, had the misfortune of finding his fine brace of greyhounds and a leash of the best spaniels in Dorsetshire hanging dead in his stables.

A letter from Rio Janeiro, gives the particulars of an affair which in substance is as follows:—It has long been the custom at Rio Janeiro, whenever any of the Royal family were met, either in or out of town, for every person to bend the knee to them while passing, and if on horseback to get off, or on a gig to get out and do the same. A short time since Commodore Bowles, of the British ship Creole, having met the Queen, he refused to go through the ceremony, when he was immediately attacked by the Dragoon guards, pulled off his horse, and very ill treated. The Commodore, through the proper channel, made a remonstrance to the King, and threatened vengeance unless immediate submission was made by the two officers commanding the guard, and such punishment inflicted upon them as the British flag required. This remonstrance had the desired effect; the officers were immediately imprisoned, and the following day under a general guard were escorted to the Creole's quarter deck, where the officers in full uniform before the ship's crew, begged pardon in the most submissive manner, and implored their mercy—they were remanded back to prison.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Monday, Dec. 8, 1819.

This being the day appointed for the meeting of the Sixteenth Congress of the U. States, at its First Session, the members thereof assembled, at the hour of 12 o'clock, in their respective Chambers, at the Capitol.

IN THE SENATE.

Mr. Barbour, of Virginia, President pro tempore of the Senate, having taken the chair—

The roll of Members was called over, and a quorum being present, the House of Representatives being advised thereof, the Senate proceeded to business.

The usual resolutions respecting furnishing Members with newspapers, &c. were adopted.

A resolution was also passed for the appointment of a Chaplain to the Senate, to interchange weekly with the Chaplain for the House of Representatives.

A committee of Enrolled Bills was ordered to be appointed, and Mr. Wilson was chosen the committee on the part of the Senate.

A committee of Accounts was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Roberts, Burrill, and Leake.

A committee on Engrossed Bills was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Mellen, Dickerson, and Elliot.

The President laid before the Senate a copy of the Constitution of Government formed by the People of the State of Alabama, which was referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Williams, of Miss. Brown, and Maccon, to consider and report thereon.

And, after appointing a committee on their part, to wait on the President, and inform him that the Senate were ready to receive any communication he might have to make,

The Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The list of Members being called over by the clerk—the House then proceeded to the choice of a Speaker, by ballot; and the ballots being counted by Mr. Pleasants and Mr. Mosely, it appeared that the whole number of votes given in was 155; of which there were

So that Mr. Clay was duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives. He was accordingly conducted to the Chair by Mr. Pleasants and Mr. Mosely, and the oath of office was administered to him by Mr. Newton.

When Mr. Clay, the Speaker elect, addressed the House as follows:

"Gentlemen—Again called, by your favorable opinion, to the distinguished station to which I have been frequently assigned by that of your predecessors, I owe to you the expression of my most respectful thanks; and I pray you to believe that I feel inexpressible gratitude, as well for the honor itself, as for the flattering manner in which it has been conferred. In our extensive confederacy, gentlemen, embracing such various and important relations, it must necessarily happen that each successive Session of the House of Representatives will bring with it subjects of the greatest moment. During that which we are now about to open, we have every reason to anticipate that the matter, which we shall be required to consider and to decide, possess the highest degree of interest. To give effect to our deliberations—to enable us to command the respect of those who may witness or be affected by them; and to entitle us to the affection and confidence of our constituents, the maintenance of order and decorum is absolutely necessary. Being quite sure that your own comfort, your sense of propriety, and the just estimate which you must make of the dignity which belongs to this House, will induce you to render to the Chair your cordial co-operation. I proceed to discharge its duties, with the sincere assurance of employing my best exertions to merit the choice which you have been pleased to make. And it will be to me the greatest happiness, if I should be so fortunate as to satisfy, in this respect, your expectations."

The Members were then called over by states, and severally sworn to support the constitution of the United States.

The House proceeded to the choice of a Clerk, and, on motion, Thomas Dougherty was appointed; nem. con.

In like manner, Thomas Dunn, was appointed Sergeant at Arms, Thomas Claxton Doorkeeper, and Benjamin Burch, assistant Doorkeeper to the House.

The Rules and Orders observed by the last House for its government, were temporarily established for the government of this House.

The usual rules respecting newspapers, &c. were adopted.

Mr. Anderson of Ky. presented to the House the Constitution formed by the People of the Territory of Alabama for their government; which was referred to a select committee, and ordered to be printed.

And, after appointing a committee on their part to join the committee appointed by the Senate to wait on the President—

BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE.

We are glad to see that this work is about to be published in this country.—Unlike the Edinburgh Review, the writers for this journal, appear to wish the dissemination of truth. Its pages are always interesting to every class of readers, which combined with a literary taste of superior merit, will we have no doubt, reward the publishers of the American edition, with a handsome remuneration.

Clayton and Kingsland, of New York, propose publishing by Subscription, Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, from the Edinburgh edition.

In announcing their intention of publishing the above work in the United States, the publishers can only express their surprise that some bookeller of extensive connexions has not long ago occupied the ground. The reason no doubt may be found in the general depression of trade, and the difficulty of collecting small sums through a widely scattered population: still that a work of such decided talents, and various literature, should have reached its fortieth number without an edition being demanded, argues at least that its great merit is known but to a very few, and that the previous fate of periodical works in our country has operated effectually against the undertaking.

Notwithstanding the foregoing considerations, the publishers have determined to solicit public patronage. If successful, they will endeavor to show, by the manner in which the mechanical part shall be executed, that they have deserved it; if not, they shall quit this object with regret, that so distinguished a production should remain unknown to the mass of their countrymen. They trust, however, that by perseverance their end will be obtained, and at that ground they make the attempt.

Blackwood's Magazine may be considered as having commenced a new era in miscellaneous periodical literature. The criticism is in general candid, bold and independent. Against the partial and often malignant criticism of the Northern Reviewers it has more than once entered its solemn protest. Indeed it seems almost the only work which has had the power of disturbing the repose, and of exciting the anxiety of those self-erected literary umpires. It is evident that they frequently write under the severity of its sarcasm, and that in future they must not expect to inflict wounds upon unoffending tales and virtuous principle with impunity. It is at once the friend of unassuming genius, and the intrepid defender of high acquirement; yet it treats with virtuous indignation those who, with the talents of the first order, devote them to the basest of purposes.

The essays and other communications in this work, are upon the most interesting subjects.—They exhibit deep thoughtful extensive research, and no ordinary degree of learning. Their purity of style and dominion over our language, is equal to any production of the age.—There is scarcely a subject of any importance which is not touched with a master's hand. Their knowledge of the literary circle which directs and controls the metropolis of Scotland, is as accurate as it is universal; nor can any similar work be pointed to, from which so much can be learned, on the various subjects of literature, morals, and the habits of intellectual society, as Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine.

APPARENT AND TRUE FRIENDSHIP.
There is a kind of feeling, possessed by many, that is often taken for Friendship, and can be traced, with few exceptions, in all the walks of life. It is the child of selfishness—burning more brilliant at certain times, when some desired object is in view, but which glows with an incomparable lustre at the shrine of wealth.—Its smiles are those of affection; its professions those of hypocrisy.

The man of opulence is generally surrounded by many friends, apparently great, who give him their smiles—who court his society at all times, and in all places—who become his greatest advocates. But when the hour of adversity arrives—when his riches have taken to themselves wings, and poverty salutes him with haggard looks and downcast eyes; when care and oppression follow hard after him; when sorrow's sigh escapes his breast, and trouble's tear bedews his cheek; when sickness has emaciated his frame, and he has not where to lay his head!— will they then be his companions; and hold out to him an administering and relieving hand—hush all his cares, and pour the balm of consolation into his wounded heart? No; they will know him no more, but will leave him to his fate, unpitied and unheard. They will be his friends no longer than they can sit at his table, and dissipate upon the luxuries of life—no longer than they can sit at his table, and dissipate upon the luxuries of life—no longer than they can derive from his wealth benefits that his liberality had prompted him to bestow; but will seek other climes, and other benefactors, where and with whom they hope to feed and satisfy their baleful appetites.

Of what infinite value, then, is pure, constant, and unalterable friendship? A soul for every woe, a monitor in every trial, it guards us against every assault—makes plain our path, and easy our progress, through a world of guilt.
It talks to us of Heaven; of the felicity there to be attained, by an upright and virtuous course in life: it will ease the aching head, and mend the broken heart —soften the pillow of death, and accompany us to that world where pure and uninterrupted friendship ever dwells.

"Hail, sacred Friendship, genial spark,
"Before thy holy shrine I kneel;
"Protect and guide my trembling bark,
"As through the storms of life I sail.
"When dark portentous clouds of care
"O'er my despairing soul impend;
"Or fell misfortune, fraught with fear,
"And rankling grief my bosom rend:
"Then, sad, benighted, lone, and drear,
"Thrice hallow'd Friendship's cheering
"Sweet soothe of my soul, appear; [ray,
"Dispel and chase the gloom away.

"Thus when the adverse tide runs strong,
"Let thy efficient power extend;
"Oh! shield me from oppression's wrong,
"And less me with a bosom friend."

His long experience in the custom house has made him perfectly acquainted with the practice, in cases arising under the maritime and revenue laws, and for the convenience of those concerned in shipping, he has opened an office near the water, above the city auction rooms, and directly opposite the Union bank, where he will always be prepared to furnish and fill up all the blanks required by the merchant, owner or master of a vessel, in the transaction of their business at the custom house. tf nov 20

Of the Corporation to provide for the speedy extinguishment of Fire, &c.

Sec 1. That every proprietor of any dwelling house, or store house within the limits of the corporation, shall, at his or her own expense, provide as many fire buckets, made of good and suitable leather, and containing at least two and a half gallons, as shall be equal in number to the stories in such house. Provided, That no proprietor shall, in any case be compelled to provide more than three buckets for one house. Every proprietor who shall neglect to procure the proper number of buckets in the manner herein directed, shall forfeit and pay one dollar per month for each bucket he shall so neglect to procure. The proprietors of all dwelling houses and store houses which shall hereafter be erected within the corporation, shall furnish the same with buckets in the manner before prescribed, within two months after such houses shall be occupied; or failing to do so, shall be subject to the penalties before mentioned.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty, esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at Capt. Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia. Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. WM. B. STUART. November 16

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named JAMES, about 22 years of age, his fore teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather, old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there. I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home. J. H. WASHINGTON. Masters of vessels and others are forewarned against harboring or carrying off said fellow. June 14

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county, Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BIAVS. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite. Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Biavs ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug. and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan, while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county, and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK. P. S. It is supposed that the said negro has obtained papers of freedom, or a free pass, or something of the kind. G. G. November 17

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin overcoat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats; besides many articles of coarse clothing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home. I. T. STODDERT. West Hatton, near Allen's Fresh Post-Office, Charles county, Maryland. aug. 6

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trousers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again. AGNES DUNDAS. Mount Eagle, May 19 d6thwstf

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor.

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling.

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case; and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or dissatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly; had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON. Charles County, Md. June 1.

The Editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment. June 11 dtf
